TREASURES FROM THE PAST— SF FALL ANTIQUES SHOW

BENEFIT FOR HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

The fourth annual San Francisco Fall Antiques Show once again fills Fort Mason Center's Pier 3 with treasures from the past. Sixty-four dealers from throughout the United States and England show American, English, Continental and Oriental furniture and decorative objects; paintings, prints, and other works of art; silver, porcelain, objets de vertu, tapestries and Oriental carpets.

Always a special treat at the SF Fall Antiques Show is the loan exhibit. This year, the Show presents fifteen 18th-century costumes and textiles from the collection of Cora Ginsberg, an American authority on clothing and textiles of the 18th, 19th and early 20th centuries. Mrs. Ginsberg is a consultant to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Fashion Institute of Technology, the Smithsonian Institution and Colonial Williamsburg.

Now 75 years old, Mrs. Ginsberg began collecting while travelling in Europe on buying trips with her husband Benjamin, an antiques dealer. He would look at fine furniture downstairs, while she was rummaging for clothes upstairs in the attic. Today, as a collector, appraiser, consultant and restorer (she repairs most things herself—"I even try to sew through the original holes"), most of her business is with museums.

At the entrance to the exhibit is a gentleman's aubergine brocaded court suit from the court of Louis XVI. The suit, originally in Mrs. Ginsberg's collection, is now in the permanent collection of The Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco.

The SF Fall Antiques Show was established in 1981 as the major fundraising event for Enterprise for High School Students, Inc., a nonprofit job referral and career development agency for San Francisco high school students. The programs are open to students from all of the city's high schools. In 1984, more than 3,000 jobs were developed for students registered in the job referral program. Enterprise sponsored 114 apprentices in such fields as architecture, medicine, art, business, computers, engineering, journalism and science. Qualified high school juniors and seniors work 6 to 10 hours per week for seven weeks, learning skills and gaining contacts and information to assist them in their academic and career planning. Of the 114 apprentices sponsored in 1984, 31 continued as paid staff members or volunteers.

This year's Lecture Series schedule:

"Collected Memories and Experiences" by Lisa Taylor, Director, Cooper-Hewitt Museum, Oct. 31, 10am.

"British and Irish Country Houses" by Desmond Guinness, author and founder of the Irish Georgian Society, Oct. 31, 2pm.

"Collecting in 18th Century Paris" by Sir Francis Watson, former curator of the Wallace and Wrightsman Collections, Nov. 1, 10am.

"Decorating with Antiques" by Kalef Alaton, interior designer, and Vincent Fourcade, of Robert Denning-Vincent Fourcade, Inc., Nov 1&2, 2pm.

"Splendor by the Yard: A Review of 18th Century Dress" by Anna Gray Bennett, Curator Emeritus of Textiles, The Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco, Nov. 2, 10am.

The SF Fall Antiques Show is open to the public Thursday, October 31 through Sunday, November 3 (daily 11am to 8pm, Sunday noon to 6pm). General admission, including a catalogue, is $10. Individual lecture tickets, including general admission and a catalogue, are $15. Advance sales are suggested for the lectures (series tickets and group discounts are available) and are necessary for patron tickets, which include admission to two receptions and unlimited admission for two to the Show. For information, call 921-1411.

FESTIVAL FRANÇAIS '85

A French street festival comes to life in Pier 2 as the setting for an exhibition of over 200 paintings from the innovative Salon "Figuration Critique," presented earlier this year at the Grand Palais in Paris. The exhibition is divided into an array of mini-museums and galleries, surrounded by the sights, sounds, tastes, aromas and moods of the streets of Paris. This delightful assault on the senses ranges from French cheeses, breads, wines, pastries and other delicacies to fashions, flowers, fragrances and furnishings; from sidewalk cafes to brasseries and bistros; from ballet to street mimes; from puppet theater for children to cabaret entertainment for adults. Door prizes are an additional attraction, including two round-trip tickets to Paris on Air France, and a bottle a month for life of Taittinger champagne.

The Festival is open from 11am to 7pm, October 18-20 and 24-27. An Opening Gala preview party on October 17 benefits French Hospital and Alliance Francaise. A French Film Festival showing on Saturday, October 19, and Sunday evening, October 20, at the Palace of Fine Arts, presents seven "art and essai" films which have not yet reached the American public.

The Festival is presented by ArtFrance, an international corporation dedicated to introducing contemporary tendencies in French and European art to the American public. In addition to conventional gallery exhibitions, ArtFrance develops and implements imaginative strategies for bringing art to the people, such as festivals, group shows in public places and mural projects.

Artist: J.C. Picard L.B.

Admission is $6.50 for adults, $4.50 for children under 12. Group rates are available. For information about the Festival, call 595-2682.

CHILI CHEFS COMPETE

SF FIREFIGHTERS COOK-OFF

Who more appropriate as chili cooks than the firefighters of San Francisco? These talented chefs and their courageous followers gather at Fort Mason Center's Pier 3 for the San Francisco Firefighters' Sixth Annual Chili Cook-Off, to celebrate, feast and raise money for worthy causes. Teams of four from fire stations all over the city compete for the glory of being named best chili chef on Sunday, October 6, from 10:30am to 5:30pm. Admission is $5, with proceeds benefitting the Kevin Collins Foundation for Missing Children, San Francisco Suicide Prevention and Fort Mason Foundation. The Cook-Off, with only word-of-mouth publicity, has generated close to $50,000 for the beneficiaries during the past five years.

Mike Papera from Station 9 is the defending champion and the chef to beat. He won't reveal what makes his chili so special, referring only to "good quality ingredients." They must be more than good—the winner here in both 1981 and 1984, Mike came in second in Los Angeles last year, has qualified for the Regional Cook-Off, and will be travelling to Tahoe and Mexico to compete later this year.

Master of Ceremonies this year is Marty Sullivan, billed as KNEW Radio's travelling chili expert, and an International Chili Society Judge. The John Gallagher Band plays for dancing in the pier, starting at 1pm, playing country & western and "a little popular rock," says Harry Paretchan, tireless chairman of the San Francisco Cook-Off since it began in 1980. He describes the event as a "giant family picnic," attracting over 2,000 people from the community. "In the past five years, this Cook-Off has evolved into the largest attended Cook-Off in Northern California," according to Paretchan. "The competition is fierce, the booths more ingenious than anything seen at the California State Championships and the chili the best."

The firefighter teams also compete to outdo each other in the decoration of their booths, inventing outrageous and ingenious names for the teams. Last year, Mike Papera's team was known as the "Junkyard Dogs." Other teams called themselves "No Bull Chili," the "Chinatown Chili Chokers," "The Big Chill(i)," and "Lost in the Fog Chili."

For those not inclined to be chili aficionados, there are milder refreshments, such as hot dogs, popcorn and soft drinks. But if you like it hot, the Chili Cook-Off is the hottest spot in town.
